SUPREME COMMAND

Move Allies' Chief For East

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The White House announced today unification of all anti-axis sea, land and air forces in the southwest Pacific area under General Sir Archibald Wavell as supreme commander.

Major General George H. Brett, chief of the United States Army Air Corps, was named deputy supreme commander for that region.

Under the direction of Gen. Wavell, Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander of the American Asiatic Fleet, will be in charge of all naval forces in the area and Gen. Sir Henry Pownall, the new British commander at Singapore, will be chief of staff to Gen. Wavell, who will take over his unified command in the near future.

The White House announcement issued by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, disclosed

further that China's Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek had accepted the supreme command over all land and air forces of the 26 "united nations" which are now or may be in the future operating in the Chinese theatre, including "initially such portions of Indo-China and Thailand as may become available to troops of the united nations."

American and British representatives will serve on his joint headquarters planning staff.

Canadian Army Escorts Nazi Prisoners Here

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—(BEP)—One thousand German prisoners have arrived in Canada and have been sent to inland prison camps. This is the first contingent of enemy prisoners to cross the Atlantic under the supervision of the Canadian army.

The bulk of the enemy prisoners consisted of five, a number were taken from the German navy, 40 of which had served aboard the Bismarck. There were only a few prisoners from the army.

The highest rank among them was that of warrant officer. Many of the prisoners appeared to be boys of 16, and they looked both healthy and well cared for. The British United Press was told that this is a new arrangement for prisoner transfer. Previously transfers had always been under British army supervision, but the British war department suggested it would be a better idea to permit Canadians to escort the prisoners, thus giving them an opportunity for home leave.

Two hundred Canadians were chosen from the first and second division corps base units. Qualifications required were: at least 18 months overseas service, with a clean criminal record. Those with previous applications for compassionate leave were favored.

"The escort was trained in an Italian prison camp in England, and then in a German prison camp." "They were exercised in barbed wire pits on the deck of the ship which brought them to Canada," it was said.

"A few of the prisoners were in civilian clothes, because their uniforms had been worn out."

"The prisoners had their own leaders, who were made responsible for the conduct of the men under them."

SINGAPORE, Jan. 3.—(CP)—British troops, fighting to hold their positions in northwestern Malaya, beat off three sharp Japanese attacks by land and one by sea yesterday, but on the east coast the invaders pushed into the outskirts of Kuala Lumpur, 100 miles from Singapore, a communicative announced today.

The bulletin said the Japanese suffered 400 to 500 casualties in the land assaults on the Perak district.

Four Japanese barges were sunk and a small steamer was set afire by the British navy. In frustration of a new landing attempt in lower Perak yesterday, the communiqué declared, and "the remainder of the enemy craft withdrew."

BOMB PROGRESS
At Kuala Lumpur, 100 miles north of Singapore on the east coast of Malaya, the enemy made some progress and have infiltrated into the outskirts of the town in their endeavor to seize the airfield, "the Japanese announced 48 hours after the night aerial thrust, at the end of the day."

The Japanese maintained their night by night aerial thrust, at the end of the day."

U.S. Prepares Huge Ship As Transport

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The 460,000-ton liner Normandie, once the pride of the French merchant marine, is rapidly being converted into the largest and fastest naval auxiliary ship in the world, the United States navy said Friday.

Naval officers invited passengers to inspect the ship and allowed them to enter the ship. Lt. Cmdr. Lester C. Scott, U.S.N., who has charge of converting the 83,423-ton liner into a six-day period of the winter warships from Dec. 30 to Jan. 1.

Several thousand workmen swarmed over the giant liner, painting her wartime gray, sealing up portholes that were cleaned with kerosene and preparing to lay gun mounts.

Scott could not say how the Normandie would be used, but she was not being converted into an aircraft carrier.

If used as a troop transport she could carry more than 12,000 soldiers.

Mussolini Orders Italians Be Block Of 'Will, Energy'

ROME, Jan. 3.—(Andi Agency)—AP—Orders to convert Italian ships to military use, "the army" were given today to Fascist party leaders by Mussolini.

The premier received assurances from the newly appointed party secretary, Aldo Visconti, that recent changes in the party leadership took place in a friendly manner.

Mussolini spoke as presiding officer of a Palazzo Venezia rally of party executives.

Fewer Deaths, More Injured In Last Year

Deaths from traffic accidents in the city during 1941 were fewer than in 1940, but there were more persons injured and more reported accidents in the year that just closed than in the preceding year.

Figures released by Sgt. Maj. Alex Riddell of the city police traffic department Saturday, reveal that five persons died from traffic mishaps here in 1941. There were seven fatalities in 1940. Persons injured last year totaled 196, against 197 in 1940. There were 1,321 accidents reported to police in 1941. In 1940 the number was 1,300.

Police point out there were nearly 20,000 more licensed auto drivers in the province in 1941 than in the previous year.

Accidents in December of this year totaled 181. There was one death and 12 persons injured in the month.

Russians Wipe Out 2,500 Hun Soldiers Daily

MOSCOW, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Malyarovskaya was added today to the lengthening list of central front cities restored to Soviet Russia by a vast army counter-offensive which was costing Germany 2,500 dead daily at the year end.

A special communique broadcast by the Moscow radio reported more than 18,000 German soldiers were being taken prisoner in a six-day period of the winter warfare from Dec. 30 to Jan. 1.

(Rumors circulated in Sweden, London sources said, that the Germans were building defenses both along the Polish border and in the interior as a precaution. A British observer said, however, that "Poland is still a long way from the fighting line.")

STEVENS REINFORCE
Russian troops were reported in a mid-day communique today to have taken the town of Stevens in three local engagements, seized three villages on the central front and captured war supplies including two tanks, 12 field guns and 35 trucks.

The Moscow radio broadcast a communique today.

NAVY BREAKS LONG-STANDING RULE To Reveal Cost of U-Boat Raids

An Editorial In Humanity's Name

THE plight of tens of thousands of elderly citizens throughout Canada is pitiable.

Men and women, in the closing years of lives that offered so much at the beginnings, are pinched by poverty and deprived of the bare necessities of food, clothing and shelter.

Their position has grown more precarious since the war has elevated prices. Today it has become so acute that, for humanity's sake, something must be done.

Canada recognized her debt to the pioneers in 1927 when the Old Age Pensions Act was originally passed. It was a feeble beginning and only intended as an experimental venture along the line of ameliorating the lot of the helpless aged. The original Act was never meant to be complete in itself.

It provided for the payment of $20 a month to every person who attained the age of 70 years, in certain circumstances. The cost of the pension was paid on the basis of 50 percent by the Dominion Government and 50 percent by any province participating in the plan.

The Act was amended in 1931 whereby the Dominion Government paid 75 per cent of the pension and the provinces 25 percent, the provinces assuming the costs of administration.

The regulations allow an old age pensioner to have an income from other sources up to $125 a year before any deduction is made from his $20 per month pension.

On the face of it, therefore, it would appear that a pensioner could receive $385 a year. But this does not work out in actuality, however, because the provinces differ so much in their interpretation of the regulations.

Meagre as the pension is, the complex regulations and necessary payment constitute the major part of the hardship and injustice.

For instance, in British Columbia just now there is an action pending in the Supreme Court where an 80-year-old pensioner has been denied his pension on the ground that he has a son who should keep him. He has been placed in

AS BARDIA TAKEN

Seize 5,000 Axis troops

CAIRO, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Maj.-Gen. Schmidt, chief administrative staff officer of the Nazi "Panzer Group Afrika," and more than 5,000 other Axis prisoners were captured at Bardia, it was announced officially today.

British losses in occupation of the port, a communique stated, were 30 killed and 200 wounded.

It said 1,150 British prisoners held by the Axis were freed. The communique told dramatically how the hold-out garrison, which threatened to become the British flank as Tobruk had been to the Axis, surrendered unconditionally. The garrison was a force of a land, sea and air assault.

RAYONET ATTACK
Telling the whole story for the first time, the communication said South African police, Kaffir Rifles and Durban Light Infantry, backed up by British tanks and artillery, Polish field artillery and New Zealand cavalry, launched a bayonet assault on the heavily defended fortress of the stronghold.

"Rather than face a repetition of the bold, skillful organized attack," the war bulletin said, "the Axis garrison decided to surrender unconditionally."

"The whole operation was magnificently organized by the British, who heavily bombed enemy concentrations and artillery positions in the forward area."

Murder Case To Be Stayed Crown Stays

Charge of murder against Dmytro Poshkay, 79-year-old resident of the Myram district, charged with the slaying of his wife, early last month, will be dropped.

The announcement that the aged farmer would not stand trial was made Saturday by J. W. McClung, K.C., crown prosecutor in the judicial district of Edmonton.

Mr. McClung said that a stay of proceedings would be entered in the Poshkay case before Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor, on Monday next at 10 a.m.

The Police department was making following a review of evidence given at the preliminary hearing of the charge before a police magistrate at Vegreville.

It is intimated by crown officials that there is not sufficient evidence to warrant continuing with the case.

Poshkay was charged with slaying his aged wife, after her body was found in the well on the Poshkay farm home near Myram. Investigation disclosed the woman's head was crushed.

The Police department has been highly respected residents of the district for many years.

R.A.F. Attacks Nazi Ship Bases

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—British bombers raided the German occupied naval base at Brest, France where the Nazi battleships Götter and Scharnhorst have been tied up for months, and also hit the German Atlantic base at St. Nazaire, occupied France, the air ministry announced today.

The air ministry said mines also were laid in enemy waters. No aircraft were missing after the operations, it said.

Russians Issue No Ultimatums To Nazi Forces

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Reports that the Russian government had demanded that 150,000 German troops be withdrawn from the Caucasus region, the consequences brought this communique today from an authoritative London source.

Expected To Strike When Nazis Attempt New Russian Attack

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—A British offensive in western Europe timed to strike when the Germans attempt a new drive in Russia was predicted today by observers as a likely development next spring.

They pointed out that British and Russian strategy are closely integrated and that some parts of Nazi-occupied France possess these four characteristics deemed necessary for creating a "third front."

- 1—A friendly civilian population to harass the Nazi rear with sabotage and guerrilla attacks;
- 2—Accessibility for combined naval and air operations supporting invasion forces;
- 3—Nearness to Britain for economy of shipping and naval power;
- 4—Limited transport facilities available to the defence.

Nazis Rush Military Works On Long Coast

By HUBERT KUNLL
Copyright, 1942, by British United Press and The Edmonton Bulletin

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 3.—Germany has started general big-scale military preparations along the entire Atlantic coast from Narvik, in Arctic Norway, to Brest on the French invasion coast, reliable reports said today.

Army, air and submarine forces have been strengthened greatly, according to the reports, and the operations at Narvik and Trondheim on the Norwegian coast, have been greatly increased by picked units, which include parachute troops and amphibian as well as ordinary tanks.

EXCLUSIVE

Further, the strong aerial reinforcements sent to all newly-built airbases in Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France since Dec. 15 include large numbers of big planes suitable for troop transports, it was asserted.

Despite the mention of parachutists, amphibian tanks and transport planes the reports did not include any speculation whether the Germans were preparing for a possible desperate attempt to invade Great Britain or were safeguarding themselves against a possible British invasion of the continent.

A large part of the Norwegian coast has been put under military command, it was reported. Interference by civil authorities is been forbidden and thousands of Norwegians have been ordered from their home districts.

Reports from Norway said also that the Germans after months of most strenuous work by tens of thousands of men had completed a gigantic airplane base on the old Norwegian army drill grounds 60 miles from Oslo and an enormous submarine base at Trondheim.

The airbase was described as having five runways each 1½ miles long and 124 feet wide and it was said to contain many bomb-proof underground hangars.

The submarine base was said to include bomb-proof docks and extensive dry docks and repair shops, so that it probably constituted the biggest German submarine base in the North Atlantic. It was reported that in addition to other submarines, 12 U-boats suited for use in the deep-water Atlantic had arrived there.

Nearly half of the workmen engaged on the submarine base and airbase were said to be specialists sent from Germany, and it was reported that there were so many of these workmen at the submarine base that Trondheim's normal population of 50,000 had been increased by 35,000.

These same reports told of constantly mounting tension in Norway, and of new German repressive measures including executions.

An informant said that neither the German occupation authorities nor the Norwegian Quislings had any more illusions regarding what they might expect from the overwhelming majority of Norwegians if Britain or anyone else succeeded in opening a new front in their country.

Ruth's Condition Not Serious

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The condition of Babe Ruth, taken to a hospital early today, is not serious, his daughter, Dorothy, said today.

She said that several days ago when the 46-year-old former home-run king was driving his new car near Tuxedo Park, N.Y., he was forced off the road to avoid hitting another machine. Ruth suffered from shock and a highly nervous condition, the friend added.

The Audacity was formerly the German warship ship Hannover which was captured by the Australians and the British warship off the Denmark coast while trying to escape from Central American waters.

It is known that at least three other warships were with the usual German practice at that time the condition, the friend added.

Cabinet Plans

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Plans for opening a new session of parliament, coupled with the every day pressure of wartime tasks and normal government routine, occupied Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his cabinet Friday at the first Privy Council session of the year.

Mr. King and his colleagues had much to talk about after the session of the cabinet war committee which was attended by Prime Minister Winston Churchill during his two-day visit here.

But there was no intimation of any proposals made to the government by Mr. Churchill who was sworn in as a member of the Canadian Privy Council after his arrival here last Monday.

Mr. King is expected to announce shortly further changes in his cabinet in keeping with his previous announcement that there would be a further representation for Quebec in the near future.

On the political front parties are preparing for four elections which are scheduled for Feb. 9 in Quebec, Aug. 10, Montreal-St. Mary, South and West, and Nov. 10 in the Liberal candidate's constituency.

Visibly too small and too brief of support to hold a wide perimeter around the city and all Manila Bay.

DEFENSIVE STAND

Japanese occupation of Manila is more serious than it is indicated by the tremendous power thrown into the Luzon strategy by the Japanese. In the immediate future, the advantage in possession gives the enemy. So far as the probable positions chosen for land-aided attacks by American-Pilipino forces can be picked out on the map, they are powerfully buttressed on all fronts.

Corridor's guns still deny enemy ships access to the bay.

They also guard the southern bridgehead to Batan Peninsula, on which MacArthur's forces are planning to make a better defensive stand. That jutting shoulder, crowned with 800-foot peaks, is a sea gate except for the southern bridgehead and the narrow mainland approach to the north.

The first line for that stand probably runs from the north of Subic Bay, where a secondary American naval base is located. A good coastal road from the lower tip of Batan peninsula, across its base and up the sea coast to Lingayen Gulf, offers communication to support such a defense line.

If even that defense line is placed, giving them increased range and benefit of a machine gun could be placed to bombard the island (which is a factor in the defense of the peninsula) from the north.

MOUNTAIN BARRIERS

Midway of the peninsula and behind that short line stands Mount Marikina, rising above the generally rugged terrain to an elevation of more than 4,000 feet. Southward toward the tip of the peninsula are the Marikina mountains and a dominating peak of close to 8,000 feet.

Except for the southern main-land arm, across the main-land channel from Corregidor, there is no point from which enemy big guns could be placed to bombard the island (which is a factor in the defense of the peninsula) from the north.

MacArthur's mobile guns can be easily placed, giving them increased range and benefit of a machine gun could be placed to bombard the island (which is a factor in the defense of the peninsula) from the north.

Orange and lemon trees have been planted on North Carolina's unique tropical belt, Baldhead Island.

At Moscow the Red army

performed a miracle against an enemy better equipped with engines of war. But German resistance is waning. The Germans have suffered a previous blow but the knockout cannot be expected until the Russians have built up their material strength to something like equality with that of the Nazis.

What the Moscow battle has shown is that the Russians possess the manpower, leadership, resourcefulness and courage to deal with the Nazis. It is a matter of time to do it. Even in their present successes the Russians fully realize that there is still a long, hard road ahead and that materials more than ever are the decisive factor.

During my recent trips to the front I heard this sentiment expressed repeatedly by Red army officers.

EXCLUSIVE

"Give us material help and we'll beat the Germans," was the gist of their feelings.

BRIGHT SIDE

The bright side of the supply picture is this: By barring the German hordes in Moscow and Leningrad, the Russians have prolonged the utilization of a vast amount of industrial machinery for the production of munitions and war equipment. Thousands of engines of war, vital equipment have been removed from both cities but a great deal of machinery still remains and this for some time has been wholly harnessed to war production. By saving it the Russians retain a highly important source of finished war materials to help bridge the gap while transplanted factories are coming into production and American supplies are reaching respectable proportions.

Most industries remaining in Moscow are light industries. On Saturday in a visit to the biggest plant in the Soviet Union, the Ural, machinery which formerly made motor parts turning out trench mortars, antiaircraft rifles and ammunition. A considerable part of the equipment of this huge plant has been transferred to the Ural and beyond where it will resume production.

Workers remaining in Moscow have readjusted themselves to their new work and new working conditions. Little real penuria stands in front of some workers along the assembly line, marked that were exceeding their war quota by 500 and 300 per cent.

CONQUERORS

Chief Engineer Vasily Tikhonov told me that his plan had been bombed several times but that none of the vital workshops had been hit. The factory was shown with a thousand incendiaries which were quickly extinguished.

With the help of factories transplanted abroad and factories still remaining in Moscow and Leningrad, material supply can be continued, will be produced in adequate volume. The nation's industry has been and continues to draw heavily on its accumulated reserves but these cannot last indefinitely and must be replenished from domestic and foreign sources.

Though the stream of American and British supplies has been steadily growing in quantity, it offers only beginning to be felt.

British and American supplies made some contribution to Russian success at Moscow but were by no means decisive.

That was virtually an all-Russian effort. The few British tanks and British aircraft were only a tiny fraction of the Russian effort.

One of the biggest results of the Russian campaign at Rostov, Moscow and Leningrad is the removal of an immediate threat to several vital lines of supply. The destruction of the German armies at Tikhvin (Tikhvin) and Volhov reduced the railway arteries to the removal of the ports of Archangel and Murmansk besides ensuring the safety of the corridor into Leningrad.

Several routes to Moscow have been reopened and in the south the free flow of supplies into Russia via Iran is again assured.

The outcome of Russia's efforts to solve her own supply problem will be easier to judge with the approach of spring when warmer weather begins to thaw out Hitler's forces. That may be the decisive period of the war.

Convoy Attacks Proves Costly To Enemy Subs

H.M.S. Storm, some prisoners being taken," the official account went on.

Two Focke-Wulf aircraft were shot down into the sea Dec. 19 and a third was badly damaged and driven off by the Audacity, the admiralty said, and the German carried on the attack with submarines.

The Audacity was torpedoed and sunk in the hunt for the surviving U-boats, who had attacked Dec. 21. "An American-built Liberator aircraft of the coastal command of the R.A.F. joined the convoy at this stage," the admiralty said, "and played a conspicuous part in the final arrest of counterattacks which eventually freed the convoy from further harassment."

"Although no prisoners were taken, as a result of many depth charge attacks carried out during the last two days of the attack, it is possible they achieved further successes against the enemy's U-boats."

The Admiralty said "German communications laid great stress on the scale and duration of the attack made on this convoy."

"They claimed nine merchant ships of 21,000 tons were sunk and of this convoy in addition to naval units sunk and two more merchant ships damaged. This claim of the enemy was an exaggeration of over 600 per cent."

The auxiliary warship Audacity was officially identified as the S-37-ton former German merchant ship Hansuut, taken prize by a naval patrol in March, 1940. It said the Germans had first said this vessel was an aircraft carrier of the 23,000-ton Formidable class.

the unhappy position of having to sue his own son for support before the authorities can grant this old pioneer his pension of $20 a month.

The son has been contributing as much as $10 a month to his father, but is not now able to do so.

Into what a brutal and tragic position these ironclad and unsympathetic regulations have forced this old man!

Yet this is only one of the many instances of tragedy precipitated by the prevailing cumbersome plan.

The administration of the Old Age Pension Act in Alberta is the best of any of the provinces in Canada. But it is far from satisfactory.

No matter how sympathetic the inspectors, the rules are so severe that many injustices prevail.

There are 10,743 old age pensioners in Alberta which may be roughly divided into three classes:

1. One-third, absolutely destitute and without any other income or property or place to sleep except as provided by relatives or friends.

2. Another third who live with relatives or friendly neighbors and receive a little income from doing odd chores or get some slight assistance of some kind.

3. The remaining third are considered borderline cases. In some instances, the pensioner has a small home or property.

But in these cases, the regulations demand that 5 per cent of the value of such property be deducted from the maximum yearly pension.

Most of these cases are pitiable in the extreme for the reason that the pensioner has bought his property in prosperous days and clings to the fantastic idea that it will worth what he paid for it.

In other words, a man with a piece of property that he considers worth $3,000 has $150 deducted from his year's pension of $240 although that property may be an actual liability because of the taxes.

The regulations will not permit such a pensioner to give his property away or sell it for a nominal sum.

The pensioner, actually, is starved by virtue of his former thrift.

The Hon. J. L. Hiley, minister of finance, has stated in the House of Commons that the Government is prepared to amend the Act as well as the regulations at the coming session of Parliament on January 21, 1942, if all or a majority of the provinces are in agreement.

The Alberta Government goes further than any of the other provinces have indicated by asking that the Act be amended to provide $30 per month to each pensioner and that the minimum age limit of 70 years be reduced to 60 years. Failing an amendment along these lines, Alberta proposes, on its own accord, to increase the present $20 per month to $30, provided that this provincial bonus to resident old age pensioners in Alberta will not be considered by Ottawa as part of the pensioner's income and deducted from the Dominion's share of the original $20.

The Bulletin has a suggestion to make to both the Dominion and provincial authorities which would simplify the whole business of Old Age Pensions and save a large sum of money in the administration of the Act. It would eliminate the mental and physical distress into which the cumbersome regulations and administrative processes have plunged so many of our hapless old folk.

It is briefly this:

That on Old Age Pension of $30 per month be paid to every Canadian citizen residing in Canada on attaining the age of 60 years, irrespective of financial position.

This sum, or an equitable proportional part of it could be recovered from those who did not need this money in income tax returns.

This plan would reduce the cost of administering the Old Age Pension Act by possibly 95 per cent. It would do away with all those injustices consequent upon the rule that pensions cannot be amended under statutory revision oftener than every twelve months.

In terms of actual dollars, the taxpayers of Canada would probably save money under such a plan, because the present costs of administration are possibly greater than the sum involved in the proposed increase.

In terms of humanity, the gain to this Dominion would be tremendous.

We are fighting to preserve civilization. And the first mark of civilization is adequate care for the helpless.

THINK IT OVER!

Goebbels Address Reserved In Tone

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels told the German people in an address over the German radio that the first of the 33 persons involved in a world-wide espionage ring are inevitable.

The British Broadcasting Corporation quoted extracts from the speech and described it as considerably reserved in tone compared with previous utterances of the German propaganda minister.

Goebbels said he was confident Germany would be ready to make further sacrifices when "the full facts are known."

His most optimistic declaration was that "All the possibilities for victory are on our side because our people are young and healthy."

Five different radio broadcasts have been held by Winston Churchill, more than ever held by any living Englishman.

Herman Loring, 46, one-time commander of the Norden Company, was accused of delivering details of the secret instrument to Germany, was sentenced to 20 years.

Everett Roder, formerly employed by the Sperry Gyroscope Company, was sentenced to 16 years.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By REV. ANDREW R. OSBORN, D.D.

Spring Street Presbyterian Church, New York City

(Formerly of First Presbyterian Church, Edmonton)

Spiritual Directives

WITH the mobilization of the United States army a new word has come into the American vocabulary. It is realized that the morale of the soldier depends on something more than obedience to regulations. There are aims and ideals for which specific regulations cannot be given; they are "directives" or guiding principles, which, when put into action, raise an army above a multitude of men and make it not only an efficient, but a noble unit.

There is really nothing new in the idea of directives. The Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount are composed of directives. The tenth commandment, for instance, forbids that spirit of insatiable covetousness, which leads men to take what rightly belongs to others. In the parable of the Good Samaritan, Jesus set forth the nature of the spirit of helpfulness, which He had previously enjoined in the Sermon on the Mount, when He told His disciples that they must be given, and doers of good even to those who did them harm.

One of the benefits of the war has been that it has made us reflect seriously on our directives both as individuals and as a society. We have seen the horrors of war and injustice in all their hideousness, and slowly we are coming to understand that there is a nobility in truth and fairness of dealing, which we had not realized before. With this realization has come a spirit of penitence, for we know that in some degree at least we have failed to make truth and righteousness the guiding principles of our lives.

This failure on our part is coming back on us now that we are engaged in a life and death struggle with unrighteous tyranny. Propaganda with supreme disregard for truth has been one of the most potent instruments of our evil. You are all, if it is right for us, individuals, to tell lies for business advantage or to gain the ascendancy over others, why should it be wrong for dictators and nations to do the same thing? Or if it is right in everyday life to take advantage of the weakness of others for our own gain, why should we condemn a nation which acts on the same principle?

Unquestionably the present crisis is compelling us to reflect on the nature of our directives. Our Lord said that a bad tree brought forth bad fruit. The war has made us realize the truth of His saying in a way we never did before. But the essential thing we have not realized is to perceive the faults and sins of others, but that we should recognize the right and noble way in which we can do more necessary in view of the spiritual chaos that will prevail after the war. We believe that our empire has the moral now of leading the world in the direction of liberty. When the war is over, we must lead in tolerance, justice and goodwill. To do this we must have right and noble directives.

Dominion Pays Fines

Alberta farmers will benefit by immediate payment of $8,000,000 in the form of grants under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, as a result of the declaration by the Dominion government that 1941 was a crop emergency year in this province, according to W. C. Barrie, director in this province for the wheat acreage reduction program.

Under the P.F.A.A. payments are made to farmers from Dominion funds. Alberta qualified for P.F.A.A. payments by having at least 80 townships in which 1941 average yields of wheat were five bushels an acre or less. Actually, Alberta had 150 townships in this category as a result of poor yields, combined with unsatisfactory harvest conditions.

Woman Recovers Cash, Jewelry In Night Ride

A taxi man honestly and good luck saved a city woman the loss of cash and jewelry and $80 in late Friday night.

The woman, according to police, had been continuing the New Year's celebration, but "had the rounds" in a taxi. Suddenly, at midnight, she missed her purse containing the jewelry, composed principally of diamond rings.

Reporting the loss to city police, the woman proceeded at once to the taxi company's office. The taxi in question had apparently been removed to the company's garage.

After a search, the taxi driver was called to the company's garage. An examination by police soon located the missing purse and its contents in the back seat of the taxi.

Mr. Johnson was rewarded with a $10 bill for his honesty.

City Man Named To Trade Board

C. D. Jackson, president of the Great Western Garment Co., Ltd., has been appointed deputy administrator for Alberta for work clothing under the War-time Prices and Trade Board. It was announced from Ottawa on Saturday.

One of his duties will be to see that prices no higher than those that prevailed between September 13 and October 11, 1941, will be charged by manufacturers in selling work clothing to retailers.

He will be expected to act as mediator between the manufacturer and retailer. Mr. Jackson stated: "If no settlement can be reached, the matter will be referred to Ottawa."

The appointment will not interfere with Mr. Jackson's present duties as head of the garment manufacturing firm.

Work clothing includes such garments as overalls, macintosh coats, work shirts, rubber and oil clothing, mitts and gloves, and other garments used in daily labor.
